SYSPRO at a glance

Thinking about ERP...

Enterprise resource planning, commonly called 'ERP', refers to the computer system that an organization uses to manage their business processes. ERP has demonstrated that it can drive significant improvements in the effectiveness of any organization.

The importance of a well-planned implementation where the business requirements and processes are clearly defined at the start of the project cannot be over-emphasized. A well-implemented system provides a solid foundation for growth, with easy adaptability to business process trends, economic swings and technological, lean and green developments.

The strategic framework used when thinking about buying, implementing and operating ERP should be determined by your organization's business objectives. By following an appropriate ERP strategy, you can significantly increase your chances of achieving operational improvement and gaining the expected business benefits.

With your implementation of ERP have you considered:

- What strategic business objective will be served with ERP?
- What, how much and when will ERP contribute to this particular objective?
- How do the answers to these two questions influence what ERP system to buy, how to go about the ERP implementation and how to operate the ERP system once it is live?

SYSPRO is a fully integrated business software solution that provides complete control over the planning and management of all facets of your business including accounting, manufacturing and distribution operations in a variety of industries. SYSPRO also addresses focussed environments with industry-specific solutions.

Since its inception in 1978, SYSPRO has been delivering state-of-the-art business solutions to some of the world's leading companies. As a global leader in the production of world-class ERP software, the company now caters to the specialized needs of more than 14 000 licensed companies in over 60 countries worldwide. SYSPRO has offices in Africa, Australia, Asia Pacific, China, the United States and the United Kingdom, and extensive representation through its global Reseller network on six continents.

Whatever your industry, SYSPRO adds value, building lasting relationships and simplifying your success with our world-class integrated business software application platform.

The only ERP decision you will ever need to make

Our pragmatic approach

It's all about your company, your people and your critical business challenges...

What sets SYSPRO apart from other global software vendors is our absolute focus on your company, your people and your critical business challenges. We work in partnership with you to identify feasible and affordable solutions to transform your business. We will help you to capitalize on your opportunities by providing a flexible and seamless offering that delivers the insight, agility and controls essential to simplify your success, so you can maximize your profits in the competitive global environment.

SYSPRO's thought leadership approach also ensures that we continually deliver the latest IT trends to our customers, including meeting Service Oriented Architecture (SOA) requirements.

SYSPRO has earned the reputation for well-structured, effective implementations in all sizes of companies, specializing in demanding environments. We have developed a structured approach to reduce the time and cost of implementing SYSPRO. Formal methodologies ensure that the implementation and ongoing changes are documented. This, together with offering leading-edge 24/7 online and classroom training options, ensure that Total Cost of Ownership (TCO) is minimized in the short, medium and long term. Our proven and award winning methodologies encourage responsibility and accountability, and promote action so that you can keep budgets and time-scales on track.

Uninterrupted, Responsible ERP

Team SYSPRO

Team SYSPRO was formed to manage and facilitate the effective rollout of the SYSPRO enterprise application in organizations that require a mix of specialized skills based on their business-specific requirements, or may require project management and specialized skills across multiple countries and locations.

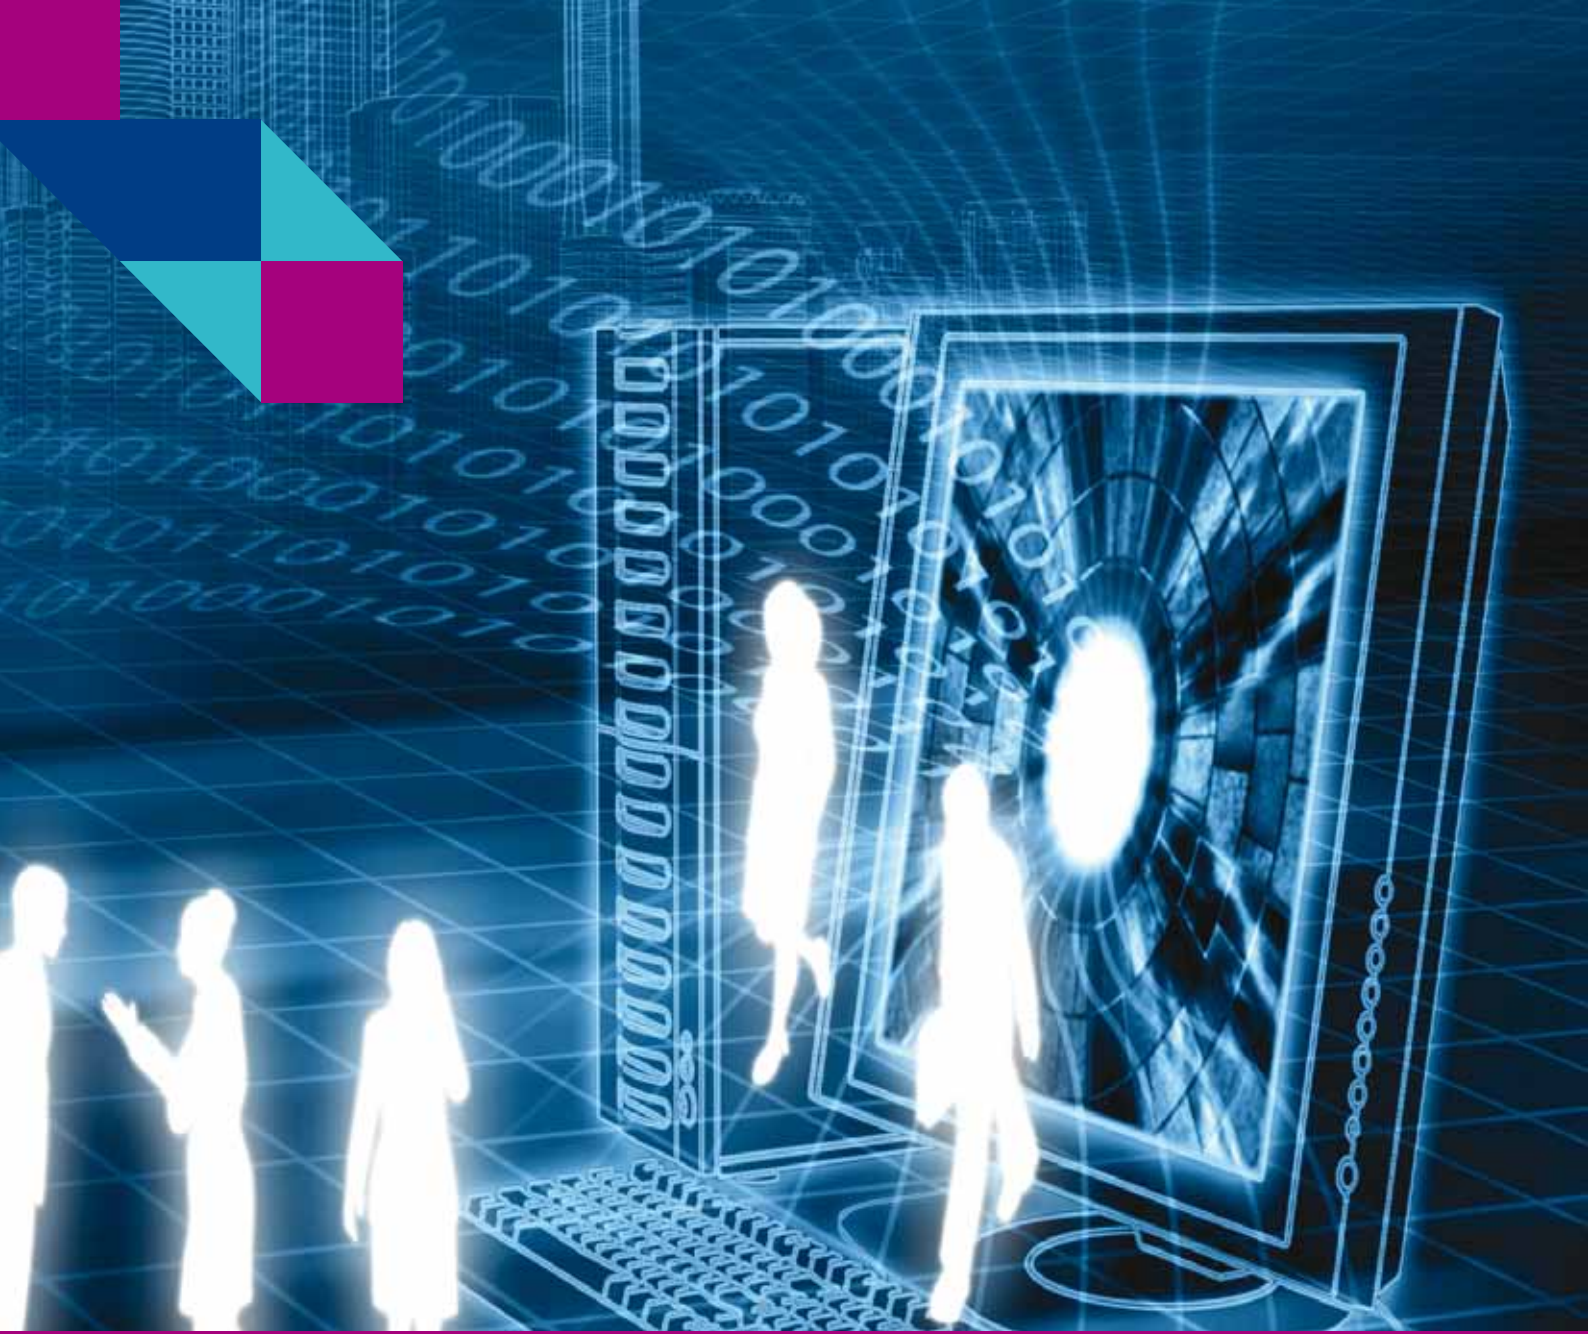

Team SYSPRO integrates internal and external experts, from the international SYSPRO community, to ensure that our customers are delivered the best possible resources through all phases of the ERP project: strategic, functional and operational.

This consolidated approach ensures that our customers receive holistic and autonomous analysis throughout the project, and optimizes operational efficiencies.

The SYSPRO Champion or Seeker of Value

Core to our philosophy is a commitment to empower you with knowledge. This enables your organization to become self-sufficient and less dependent on outside services or external control. This is achieved through our user-centric product configuration and customization, ongoing educational programs and processes, and regular customer interaction.

The nomination of a SYSPRO Champion or Seeker of Value of your choice within your organization enables us to work far more closely with your organization. This person, or group of people, is responsible for bridging the gap between the ERP supplier and your organization. By understanding company strategy and keeping abreast of the features of SYSPRO, your SYSPRO Champion can constantly strive to seek value. This approach empowers the customer by giving greater control to the organization, and invariably results in reduced costs and a greater ROI

Our channels

Whether it's channel or direct, SYSPRO assumes direct responsibility for customer satisfaction...

Our primary method of delivering product to market is through a strong Reseller network which is responsible for local implementation and support. However, when the size or scope of the project exceeds a Channel Partner's capacity for delivery, or if multiple Channel Partners need to be coordinated, SYSPRO will engage customers directly or in co-operation with Channel Partners.

Our solutions

Our solutions embody the company's pragmatic, yet visionary business philosophy and support of lean and green business practices for manufacturers and distributors.

Product development

The entire SYSPRO product is a single-source solution and this means you only need one application, SYSPRO, to manage all the business processes in your organization. This single DNA ensures that the underlying structures and processes within your enterprise application stay intact over the long term making it easy for your employees to learn new features and functionality as the product grows, progresses and is enhanced. We believe in evolution not revolution and deliver the product and updates in a gradual controlled manner to ensure our customers are on the latest version and deriving real value over the long term.

SYSPRO continually interprets market trends, resulting in an up-to-date enterprise business application that incorporates the latest technologies, such as Microsoft .NET, XML and Web Services.

The results of this dedication, specialization and distinctive technology are reflected in the product, our high customer retention rate and the ease with which our customers upgrade to the latest software version.

Power tailoring approach

We recognize that your company's uniqueness is its competitive edge and have designed SYSPRO to be flexible and to be tailored to meet your specific business needs. Consequently, SYSPRO provides excellent visibility and when deployed can facilitate enormous benefits in effectiveness, efficiencies and cost-cutting, while still being configured and shaped to the unique requirements of your business and industry.

Affordable and flexible solutions

SYSPRO's multi-platform software is tailored, so that you have the scalability to grow and flexibility to select only those functions needed to increase operational control and efficiency.

SYSPRO has received many accolades and awards for delivering an exceptional balance between price and performance. Our product is priced on a region-specific basis and includes an Annual License Fee that ensures that you continue to enjoy the benefits of product enhancements, upgrades and support on an ongoing basis. SYSPRO has an impressive track record and continues to deliver as a result of this proven pricing model where the cost of acquiring and implementing SYSPRO is reduced, and the long-term Total Cost of Ownership (TCO) and Return on Investment (ROI) is greatly enhanced.
